ERIE PROBLEM CAUSED WORRY

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 9.—The bewilderment in which the financial world has been groping for over a week on the Erie problem, was amply explained by disclosures over night of the extent to which principals in the working out problems had been consumed in their intentions and open to failure of the whole project. That the Erie was saved from receivership and that the advance of relief funds expressed confidence not only in the property but in the financial prospect in general, were the results summoned up to be accepted from the episode as a whole. The effect in the stock market, however, was of slow growth and not uninterrupted. Bonds were firm.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN WILLIAM WASSELL

(By Associated Press.)

GOLDFIELD, Nev., April 9.—One of the bravest and most brilliant officers in Uncle Sam's army is beyond the range, and Goldfield has lost one of her favorites. A message received by Captain John A. Hassell, announced the death at the Army and Navy sanitarium at Fort Bayard, N. M., of Captain William H. Wassell, who was commandant of the troops here in Goldfield during the labor troubles. The patient passed away on April 3, his life being claimed by tuberculosis. He was 44 years of age and senior captain of the Twenty-second infantry.

Captain Wassell was born in Pittsburgh. He served through the Spanish-American war and was credited with gallant conduct. An Santiago he was shot through the cheek and neck during a particularly daring attack. He afterwards distinguished himself during the Philippine campaign. When he left Goldfield he was suffering from pharyngitis, and was quarantined as soon as he arrived on the coast, later being sent to the hospital at the Presidio. He was then ordered to the army and navy hospital at Fort Bayard, suffering with consumption. Captain Wassell was a great friend of Captain Hassell, and one of the most genial men who ever donned the khaki.

Julia Marlowe's Love For Woman's Hubby Basis for Divorce

SALEM, Ore., April 9.—Satt for divorce was entered in Essex county probate court here by Mrs. Clara Louise von Hermann of Hamilton against her husband Karl, in which Julia Marlowe, the actress, is named as the principal co-respondent.

The second co-respondent mentioned is Mrs. Maud Thorburn Backus of Brooklyn, but Mrs. von Hermann appears to place the greater emphasis upon her charges against Miss Marlowe, for whom, it is said, von Hermann was at one time assistant business manager or press agent. Miss Marlowe is understood to be at present touring professionally in upper Canada.

The offenses enumerated in the charges are alleged to have taken place in several cities between the autumn of 1903 and the spring of 1905. It is asserted that von Hermann met Miss Marlowe six or seven years ago through a highly eulogistic criticism of one of her performances which he wrote as a newspaper man while the actress was playing in Louisville, Ky. It is claimed that Miss Marlowe was so pleased with the notice that she sent for the writer and soon afterward took him into her employ, and that later he went to Europe with her and looked after her business affairs of the trip for her.

Mrs. von Hermann declares that she is prepared to prove that Miss Marlowe introduced von Hermann to someone as her own husband.

Marshall from the United States circuit court of the district of Montana, appellant, judgment was affirmed. Money had been loaned the mining company by McClure and a judgment obtained against it on the foreclosure of mortgage amounting to over $80,000. The bank had also loaned money to the mining company and asked to have the judgment in favor of McClure set aside on the ground that his brother was president of the Diamond R. Mining company and that this indicated fraud. Judge Ross said: "We are unable to see any judgments for fraud constitute any valid reason for voiding the judgment in favor of Charles D. McClure."

WANTS MILLION FOR HIS SHARE

(By Associated Press.)

SEATTLE, Wash., April 9.—The allegation that we was sent out by Marcus Daly with the understanding that he was to get a 25 per cent division of the profits is made the basis by M. K. Rodgers for a suit to recover a quarter interest in the Nickel Plate mine at Hedley, estimated to be worth $4,000,000. Rodgers was the personal friend of Daly for fifteen years, a special representative of the Anaconda company and former mining adviser for James J. Hill. It is alleged that the Daly estate has attempted to settle with Rodgers on a basis of $2,000,000 valuation of the mine. Rodgers refused this, however. An offer to sell the mine for $4,000,000 was recently refused by the estate. Since the mine has been shipping it has sent $1,000,000 in gold bullion to the Seattle assay office, and it is claimed that it is now on a producing basis where an estimate of the share Rodgers claims figures above the million-dollar mark. The mine is located on Hill's new Victoria, Vancouver & Eastern, now building through Canada, and the case therefore will have to be fought out in a British Columbia court.

(By Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Ore., April 9.—Farmella lake, one of the most beautiful bodies of water in the Cascade mountains, has completely disappeared, according to Deputy Forest Warden Thomas Smith, who has just arrived in Portland from a trip through this range. The lake was one of the wonders of Oregon, lying in a bowl at the top of one of the highest peaks of the Bunch Grass division of the Cascades. All that is now left is a great crevasse and the remains of the fish with which the lake abounded. Farmella lake was about half a mile wide and two miles long, very deep and clear as crystal. Its outlet had never been determined, but it was supposed it swelled the waters of the Santiam river. Its disappearance is regarded as one of the strangest phenomena ever known in this state and no explanation has yet been reached.

NOT DISTURBED BY GOULD STORY

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., April 9.—William F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, was unruffled by an answer filed in New York by Howard Gould attacking the character of Mrs. Gould, who is now seeking a legal separation from him, and who, as Katherine Clemmons, was a friend of the Wild West showman. The allegation made by the millionaire husband that the conduct of his wife and Colonel Cody was improper was calmly ignored. "The affairs of Howard Gould and his wife do not interest me," said Colonel Cody in the lobby of the Stratford hotel. "I read the New York report of his answer in court, referring to me, and all I can say is that Howard Gould knew the woman who is now his wife four years before he married her, and for nine years after that he never made any complaint. If there had been anything wrong he would have said so long ago. Pay any attention to it? Not me. I'm not interested in his troubles and I don't see how they concern me."
